

Eight From Knox

Graduated From Maritime Academy At Castine Last Saturday

One hundred and forty-five young men, the largest number ever graduated from one class in a State maritime academy, received their diplomas from the Maine Maritime Academy in Castine Saturday afternoon. The majority had completed the exacting course in 18 months, a minority in 14 months, which was an accomplishment.

Among the graduates were the following from this vicinity:

Miles R. Sawyer, Rockland.
Richard G. Spear, Rockland.
Eugene Pales, Thomaston.
John Flint, Rockland.
Harold Heal, Rockland.
Ambrose A. Peterson, Vinalhaven.
Richard Libby, Vinalhaven.
James Harding, Rockland.

Training period at the Academy will be increased from the present 16 months to 18 months when a new class of 100 midshipmen reports.

The training will include a year of academic work and six months of cruising. A class will be graduated next Saturday.

Among accepted candidates for the Nov. 1 class were Walter Gray, Stonington and John F. McKeen, Camden.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Pratt Memorial Methodist Church held a special meeting Thursday in observance of the Week of Prayer. Dr. John Smith Lowe was guest speaker and had chosen for his subject "Getting Help From Religion, God and Prayer." In times such as the present, when all humanity is so desperately in need of help, Dr. Lowe's message was especially touching. He distinguished the talking, "asking" prayer from the "listening" prayer, and summed up his discourse by reminding his listeners that we receive the benefits of prayer only if we are properly receptive.

TO HAVE THE NAVAL BASE

Word From Washington Is That Coast Guard Will Take Over This Valuable Plant

A telegram from Representative Margaret Chase Smith received at The Courier-Gazette office a few hours after the Friday edition had gone to press, contained this cryptic sentence—

"Section Base at Rockland to be taken over by the Coast Guard."

The news came as no surprise to this newspaper, which was advised by Washington several weeks ago that the move was imminent.

Lieut. Commander Isaac L. Hammond, Captain of the Post is said to have also been aware that negotiations were pending, but when a Courier-Gazette reporter called upon him Saturday he learned that Commander Hammond had not been informed of the proposed transfer and when that official called the Boston headquarters, in the reporter's presence that department also admitted ignorance of the deal.

The Courier-Gazette wired Representative Smith Saturday for additional details and received this reply—

"Cannot get anything but the fact that is to be taken over."

Brief, but confirmatory. It is stated unofficially that the Naval bases are being condensed. The plant which was built on Tillson wharf at a cost of a million dollars or more is not to be abandoned, but will make an ideal home for the Coast Guard force which is said (unofficially) to have numbered between 100 and 200 men at different times. Intimation is given that the plant now used by the Navy will become a permanent Coast Guard base after the war.

That the Coast Guard lease of the Thordike Hotel Block may soon become cancelled seems to be in the nature of things and this will be eminently satisfactory to Manager Nathan Berliawsky, who all along has expressed himself as being glad when he can return to the hotel business.

The fighting strength of the Coast Guard at the end of 1943 will be 25 times as great as it was during World War I, Coast Guard officials announced today. A total of 171,500 officers and men is the ultimate goal planned for this 153 year-old service by December 31 of this year.

During the last war the Coast Guard had a total strength of 6,700 men—practically no increase over their peace-time complement.

The Women's Reserve of the Coast Guard, the SPARS, which celebrates its first anniversary next month, now has a total strength of approximately 5,000 women on active duty. Lieut.-Comdr. Dorothy Stratton, director of the SPARS, has set 15,000 as the national goal. This will release shore-based Coast Guardsmen for combat duty and will help to bring the Service to its peak in fighting efficiency.

"GIVE-GIVE GENEROUSLY"

That Is the Order Of the Day As the Women Of the Neighborhood Plan Start War Chest Canvass

The War Chest drive in Rockland swings into full stride this week when the city's loyal women of the Neighborhood Plan start the task of a house to house canvass under chairmanship of Mrs. Athleen McRae.

The sweep will include all wards which are carefully organized with these captains: Ward 1, Mrs. Nettie Frost; 2, Miss Ruth Rogers; 3, Mrs. Marguerite Perry; 4, Mrs. Clemmie Preston; 5, Mrs. Inez Ames; 6, Mrs. Velzora Plourd; 7, Mrs. Reita Holden. A complete list of the public spirited team members will be presented Friday.

Never has there been presented to the people of this city a more thoroughly worthy and more vitally important opportunity to give. Embraced in the campaign are 17 war-related agencies, combining all war relief activities except the Red Cross. These agencies all bear directly upon the hearts and lives of Rockland people in these days of war's agony.

The U.S.O., typically American organization, extends its friendly hand wherever the men in the armed forces go and includes the National Catholic Community Service, Traveler's Aid, Salvation Army, Y.M.C.A. and Young Women's Christian Assn. The United Seaman's Service shoulders the responsibility of freeing the men of our hard pressed Merchant Marine from the worries of families, children, domestic cares and financial problems. It touches directly many Rockland men at work on the most grueling front of the war.

War Prisoners' Aid provides recreational, educational, cultural and religious activity for war prisoners and makes life worth the living in the barbed wire cages. It in no way duplicates the relief work of the Red Cross along food and communications lines.

Russian War Relief, United China Relief, The British War Relief Society, these also are included and are vitally important units of the campaign.

When the public spirited workers appear at your home this week the order of the day is to give and give generously. No appeal ever had a more personal, vital call to every citizen. This appeal and all seventeen agencies embraced in it, reach every individual in Rockland.

Given Bronze Medal

Hero Commission Rewards Camden Housewife For Saving Small Boy

Mrs. Frances Knowlton Nash of Camden has been awarded a bronze medal by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

Mrs. Nash saved Alton L. Murray, 9, from drowning in the Meganticook River after ice that extended six feet from the bank broke under him and he drifted away from the shore.

Heavily clothed and wearing rubber boots, Mrs. Nash stepped onto the ice but couldn't reach the boy. She ran to a nearby store for a rope and returned to the river as Alton rose to the surface in water nine feet deep and 12 feet from the bank.

Removing her coat, Mrs. Nash stepped into deep water and swam seven feet to Alton. As she tried to take hold of the lad, his flailing knocked her arm aside. Finally she got hold of him from behind, swam 10 feet to the ice and managed to get a footing in water four feet deep.

A youth aided Alton and Mrs. Nash onto the ice and to the bank.

The Need Is Great

Women, Young and Old, Are Desired For Work On Surgical Dressings

There is desperate need at Rockland Surgical Dressings Headquarters for more help. It has been sent to national headquarters before 143,600 dressings to make and send Dec. 31. There are plenty of women who could do this work so vital to the moment's needs.

We in Knox County have always made good and why fall down now when the need was never more clearly understood. Our boys are fighting for civilization, can't we give up for a time the social pleasures on Red Cross days. Only two afternoons and one evening a week are needed, if enough will put their shoulders to the work.

Today the average is about 15 to 20 workers when there should be 100. Where are you women?

This job must be done in time or the materials will be sent to other Chapters, where they have already done their quota. Knox County has never had that black eye, and we do not want it now. Get into the game and help; drop your cards and other social functions for the present. The Red Cross requires that you heed the call.—K. S. P.

The Maine Sheriffs' Association met at the Franklin County Court House Friday with Sheriff Earl R. Hawkins of Farmington as host. President C. Earle Ludwick was in the chair.

Miriam Rebekah Lodge, I.O.O.F. will meet tonight. The degree staff will serve refreshments at close of meeting. Canton Lafayette and Auxiliary will meet tomorrow night.

Corp. and Mrs. Stirling F. Morse have bought the Arthur E. Saunders' cottage at Ingraham Hill.

SUPERIOR COURT CONVENES

Probably a Short Term, But a Long List Of Pending Divorces

The November term of Superior Court for Knox County convened at 10 o'clock this morning, with Justice Albert Bellevue of Rumford occupying the Bench.

The best guess at the Court is that it will be a short term, possibly bounded on the East by today and on the west by Friday. There is little or no civil business for the trial jury, and it seems quite likely that the term will be dominated by divorces.

Rev. Alfred G. Hempstead acted as chaplain. Court officials include C. Earle Ludwick, sheriff, Milton M. Griffin clerk, Stuart C. Burgess, county attorney, Fred L. Wilson, stenographer, and Luke S. Davis, messenger.

Granville N. Bacheider is court crier, and A. A. Pillsbury is in charge of the grand jury. The traverse jurors arrive Thursday.

The new grand jury was being impaneled when The Courier-Gazette went to press. It was found necessary to excuse five of the persons drawn for the service and four new jurors were drawn—Andrew Victor Elmore of Camden, Herbert A. Emmons of Warren and Frank R. Harper and Leforest A. Thurston of Rockland.

Long List of Divorce Entries

Following is a list of divorces entered in vacation since the May term of court, probably constituting a Knox County record:

The Black Cat

(By The Roving Reporter)

The Courier-Gazette says that the farmers in that locality are laying the presence of the railroad worms in the apples which they are bringing to market, to the rainy weather. That's all hokey. Apples which have been given the proper treatment by frequent spraying, etc., are free from these worms which have developed in comparatively recent years. We can remember when good sound apples sold for as low as $1.50 a barrel, but, of course we didn't have the labor problem to contend with in those days.—Bridgton News.

I stand corrected. A bit of careless editing in the original item prevented me from saying that the heavy rains washed off the spray. Phooey, Black Cat!

Collecting photographs of older members of the Penobscot county bar is a hobby of Justice Raymond Fellows who wants to have them framed and hung at the courthouse, says the Lewiston Journal. I wonder to what extent this may have been done in Knox County, which in former years boasted such distinguished Bar members as A. P. Gould, David N. Mortland, the Littlefields and M. A. Johnson.

The white moose which has been reported in this locality may have been the purebred Holstein heifer owned by Charles M. Burgess of Union which obeyed the call of the wild last Spring and disappeared from the Burgess herd. The animal was recently recovered by Charles Heath.

"Although I moved from Rockland more than 30 years ago I still look forward to the arrival of each issue of The Courier-Gazette with keen anticipation. I enjoy all of its varied features and it ranks next to the letter from home in my incoming mail." Thus writes

"THIS IS THE ARMY"

Irving Berlin's All-Soldier Show At the Strand Theatre For Army Emergency Relief

"This Is The Army," Irving Berlin's all-soldier show which rocked Broadway for months, has now been made into one of the most exciting motion pictures of all times. This is the show of, by and for the boys in our Army—their striking humor and sincere patriotism, the show that only a country as great as ours could foster. Although several screen personalities play a part in this film, the stars are soldiers, members of a Provisional Task Force chosen for their outstanding abilities as actors, dancers and singers.

The proceeds of this picture go to the Army Emergency Relief, as did the proceeds of the stage production, which grossed $2,000,000.

Army Emergency Relief has been organized by the Army to give prompt financial help and other short-term assistance to all soldiers and their dependents who deserve help, whenever and wherever such help is needed. Relief may take the form of money, or aid in kind, such as fuel, hospitalization, medical and dental care, or other emergency services such as assistance in matters of re-employment, allotments and insurance. Soldiers or their dependents can ask for help at any Army post, camp or air field or local Red Cross Chapter, where full information will be available. A soldier without worries about his family's financial emergencies is a better soldier.

"This Is The Army" should be welcomed in style befitting the grandeur of our Army. We are, therefore, enlisting the co-operation of all businesses.

Tickets are now on sale by the local committee and at the box office of Strand Theatre. Plan to buy your tickets early as only a limited amount are to be sold for this premiere and also to assure the Army Relief Fund a sizeable amount for this most worthy cause.

HOME-KEEPER'S HYMN
This home that is my trust to keep
I would make clean in every part;
But as its keeper I would be
As clean in body, mind and heart.
Let order in my home prevail
To give a soothing tone of grace,
Yet may my zeal for tidiness
Be held within its proper place.
May each soul find within his room
The restful comfort that he should.
And may I prize the ministry
Of choosing and preparing food.
And let our home a refuge be Where we confess mistakes we've made,
And find the courage that we need
To try again, still unafraid.
May God abide within our walls
And each have sanctuary there,
To sense in every busy hour
The soothing atmosphere of prayer.

He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none.—Luke 3:11.

Book Review

(By K. S. F.)

Coventry Cured, by Homer Cory. Published by Harper & Brothers, New York and London.

Our farmers in the Middle West, corn-hog-and-cattle section, are a portion of this country to be reckoned with. Here is a delightfully authentic narrative, Homer Cory tells us he was born on a farm near the center of the United States, and he says: "I am the farm and the farm is me," calling his story a double-barreled autobiography. It really is more than that. One could honestly call it a typically and sincerely American story of country life, with much high comedy and rich humor.

The reader is impressive with the Cory family; one finds plenty of this kind, through the broad acres of the American central section—the honest, thoughtful personalities who live to enrich their country as much as to make money for themselves.

I speak from years of experience—Kansas was my home—where William Allen White, Bishop William A. Quayle, Governor, and later Senator Henry J. Allen, and many more distinguished citizens of these broad lands breathed into their lives here rich fragrance of purpose, making of them, real men of worth.

There is plenty of humor found all through the years, and what is best these people understand and enjoy it.

"Country Cured" is excellent reading, all the intimate duties connected with farm life—buttering the hogs, and corn-cob smoking for sweet sugar cured hams, and on and on.

This story, told so simply but so perfectly, reveals much little known or thought of by the dwellers of community centers, and out of touch or thought, with the methods used to put meats and other foods on the market.

The author delightfully describes the feeling of the young son of the family who was called upon for what he termed the hard and unpleasant tasks so constantly overflowing the pleasures of life. Quilting bees were for women only, and no man dare come nearer than the gate, where he delivered his wife and daughters with their needles and thimbles ready for instant work. Care was taken in setting up the quilts, for if not perfectly done the whole thing would be "coilywobbled"—a new name, and from Missouri, not from Kansas.

Every page and incident bristles with the fine feelings of the author. No wonder the reviewers give this book the high place in the really honest and basically worthy books out today. It will give to every country-born person deep and lasting memories. This writer has experienced many of the incidents recorded with joy. One of Harpers' best.

Kathleen S. Fuller.

"Red Is For Murder." Author, Phyllis A. Whitney. Zeff-Davis Publishing Company.

This fingerprint mystery is full up with thrills. Things which have familiar significance suddenly whirl around into unnaturalness, with all too much of terror and even death at our heels. The plot is cast in a huge department store, just after hours. Eeriness follows one through every chapter and incident. Evil strikes at every turn, and terror surrounds the most natural ways of life for the heroine. Phyllis Whitney the author, has "struck 12" on this mystery, and the reader is loath to drop the book until the very end is reached. "Red is for Murder" will be a popular story with all crime club and mystery fans I predict.

[EDITORIAL]

The radio made a great deal out of that state dinner in Moscow when Premier Joseph Stalin proposed toasts to the success of the Tripartite Conference, the United States and British armies in Italy and their airmen in Britain. That dinner was quite some affair, according to the radio and press reports. It began at 8:30 p. m., and did not adjourn until 2:30 a. m., and in the course of it 22 toasts were proposed. Our knowledge of Russian banquets is very meagre, and we don't know what the toasts consisted of whether vodka, cider or just plain H₂O, but after Uncle Joe Stalin placed 22 of them under his belt he was in a very amiable frame of mind, and his utterances for the first time coincided with British-American wishes. If Germany or Japan hoped to make any capital out of the Moscow conference they must have been terribly disappointed at the news which came over Sunday night. It really looks as if the three great powers had come to see "eye to eye."

COUNTING FEWER NOSES

Maine's civilian population dropped from 822,226 on May 1, 1942, to 795,226 on March 1, 1943, according to the Bureau of the Census, which based its figures on registrations for War Ration Book No. 2.

Cumberland and York Counties were the only ones to show a gain, the former having a plus sign of 15,057. Knox County lost 4684, Lincoln County lost 1921, and Waldo County lost 4432. Knox County's present civilian population is 22,474.

SEWALL WILL SAY SOON

Gov. Sumner Sewall, besought to run for a third term, has been delaying his decision until he could inspect the petitions which have been coming to him from various parts of the State. Now that they have been duly presented—carrying an impressive array of 7009 names—the Governor's ultimatum may be expected in short order. He cannot feel otherwise than complimented because of this unusual demand for the continuation of his services, and unlike most petitions that demand evidently comes from the heart. It does not have the perfunctory ring which characterizes most petitions, and it would be interesting to know just how it reflects the opinions of the voters at large, where the sentiment against a third term Governor has always prevailed. The petitions cannot fail to put the Chief Executive in an embarrassing position for while it is highly complimentary on the one hand, he does not fail to recognize the perfectly legitimate aims and ambitions of those who have already entered the field.

SLOGAN FOR THE BIRDS

A prize of $10 in a Statewide contest is not especially important, but when Mrs. John Corning of Yarmouth offered it in behalf of the Garden Club Federation of Maine for the best bird slogan for the State she appealed to all bird lovers interested in the protection of birds and appreciative of their beneficial worth for mankind. As each contestant may submit ten entries there should be no difficulty in obtaining a desirable phrase. Birds are among our most important acquisitions of the Summer season. What a delight to watch these beautiful feathered creatures, their antics, the care they bestow upon their young and their usefulness in destroying bothersome insects. We wish we had the power to think up a slogan which would do justice to them.

DID HE SPEAK OUT OF TURN?

When Admiral Chester Nimitz, in his Navy Day address in Australia, predicted a new drive against the Japanese, he was doubtless unprepared for the unfavorable reception it would have from his English cousins. A government spokesman is quoted as saying that operations "should be carried out first and talked about afterwards." Which, being translated into perfectly understandable English means that the Australians thought the American Admiral "slopped over." But they should be duly grateful because the American Admiral and his ships slopped over onto the Australian side of the water.

Dim-Out Suspended

But We Should Not Be Left Open To Attack, Argues John Pomeroy

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

The coastal dim-out was suspended yesterday. This is a temporary return to normal as far as night lighting is concerned, dependent upon the outcome of the fight with German submarines in the Atlantic. Should the occasion arise whereby it again becomes necessary to put the dim-out into effect we will be given 24 hours to restore dim-out conditions as they previously existed.

To that end all householders, stores, commercial establishments, manufacturing plants, etc., are advised to maintain their dim-out material ready for use. It will not be possible to put the shields back on all street lights in the area in that space of time with the crews available. Any lights that cannot be treated during that period of time will have to be blacked-out until shades can be replaced.

Automobile owners are advised to be prepared to shade their headlights again within the 24-hour period.

In the event of a black-out, emergency vehicles equipped with emergency "E" stickers and "C. D." pennants will proceed with headlights on low beam and at a speed to conform to traffic regulations in effect in the area through which they are driven.

We are asked by the War Production Board to eliminate all unnecessary lights and power consuming equipment in order to save power and critical materials. Fuel can be saved by drawing residential window shades. Such economies should be practiced by everyone in the best interest of the war effort.

The Battle of the Atlantic is in the last round but until the enemy has been counted out he can be expected to strike some telling blows. The same applies to the war as a whole. It is not won yet, and it is not good sense for us to take too much for granted until the outcome is a little more clear. It is good sense to remove troublesome restrictions as fast as it is safe to do so, even to the point of gambling a little, and this latest move to suspend the dim-out is a gamble. Let us treat it as such and be ready to meet any emergency that may develop.

All of these moves toward normal conditions expose us to greater danger should the enemy decide to strike in our direction. We know that he still possesses the power to strike should he think it worth while and Civilian Defense must remain keyed up, ready for action. The military authorities have indicated their readiness to eliminate passive defense functions as quickly as they can be dispensed with. When the time arrives for the demobilization of Air Raid Wardens, Auxiliary Police, Disaster and Emergency Medical units they will be promptly disbanded.

John Pomeroy.

WORKING FOR VICTORY

Miss Dorothy Leach Bryant, of Camden, has been accepted for enlistment in the U. S. Marine Corps Women's Reserve, Captain William J. Dow, Officer in Charge of Marine Recruiting in Maine, announces.

Miss Bryant, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield S. Bryant, of 51 Pearl street, Camden, has been employed in the Rockland office of the State Selective Service system since her graduation from Camden High School in 1941. When in High School, she was a member of the girls' basketball team for three years and in her senior year was co-captain of the team.

Miss Bryant is awaiting orders to begin her indoctrination training at Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C.

Wilbur C. Connon of Rockland has received his commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the Coast Artillery Corps upon successfully completing the officer candidate course at the Anti-aircraft Artillery School, Camp Davis, N. C., Oct. 28. His local address is 124 Union street, Rockland. The newly commissioned local officer will take up his new duties in the Anti-aircraft Artillery after a short furlough. The course at the Anti-aircraft Artillery School is one of the most difficult of the officer candidate tests in the army.

"Program Of Action"

Adequate System Of Warning and Mobilizing Must Be Maintained

"Around-the-clock" operation of an adequate system for warning and mobilizing Civilian Defense protective forces was called for by the East Coast Conference of State Defense Directors meeting at the University Club of New York to outline a "Program of Action" for the present trained forces of protective personnel.

1. Twenty-four hour maintenance and operation of an adequate system for warning and mobilizing the civilian defense protective forces in the Eastern Defense Command must be maintained.

2. The maintenance of the present trained force of protective personnel embracing the established protective services is essential.

3. Periodic drills and exercises, including black-outs, should be held at such time and in such manner as will insure the maintenance of an alert and efficient protective force.

4. The important Community War Services work of the millions of civilian defense volunteers now working under Defense Council leadership must be pushed forward with maximum energy.

Lieutenant General George Gru-

P. O. 12429-C, care Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Tech. Sgt. Freehand E. Staples, son of Charles E. Staples of Rockland, who has been at Camp Shelby, Miss., since July 15, 1943, has received a physical discharge. He recently visited Mrs. Staples and their daughter, Sandra Mae, in Presque Isle.

Mrs. Theresa C. Walker of 27 Lisle street, Rockland, has received a letter from her son, Pfc. Donald J. Walker, who is somewhere in the Pacific. He is well and wished to be remembered to his many friends. Censorship provisions prevent the publication of his address.

George P. Halstead, son of Mrs. Alice Vasso of Rockland, has left for naval training. He enlisted in the Seabees.

Sgt. Ernest Dondis arrived home from Parris Island, S. C., Sunday morning, for a surprise visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Dondis.

Much interest among local Colby graduates was manifested in the 125th anniversary ceremonies held Saturday and Sunday in Portland, honoring the founder, Rev. Jeremiah Chaplin, culminating in the launching of a 10,500 ton Liberty ship named for Mr. Chaplin. Trustees and Alumni Council met Saturday night and the ceremonies concluded with a banquet at the Falmouth Hotel with Colby's new president Julius S. Bixler as principal speaker. A former Rockland man, Andrew G. Sides, vice president of the shipbuilding company played an important role at the banquet. T. Raymond Pierce, formerly of Rockland and John M.
Richardson are members of the Council. President Bixler has agreed to make his first visit to this section in the near future under auspices of the Knox County Colby Club.

Dr. Lowe Deplores Surrendering Independence For Weak-Kneed Ideas

"The Boomerang of Bureaucracies," or "Independence vs. Dependencies," was the subject of Rev.
John Smith Lowe's address before brother Rotarians and guests at Friday's meeting of the Rotary Club.

Dr. Lowe declared that all should have "freedom to live one's own life and be free from dependence" and that a good guide would be, "All for each and each for all." He deplored the strong tendency of piling more and more onto the federal government and "surrendering independence for weak kneed slavish dependence."

Charles H. Duff, familiarly known as "Carl," a charter member of the club, who has missed only three meetings, was presented with a 12-year pin. "Carl" was loudly applauded for his fine record.

The club voted to donate $25 to the Knox Hospital. There were no visiting Rotarians, something rather unusual for this club. Guests of members were Sgt. Albert O. Emery, who is stationed in the finance office of the army force at Nashville, and who has been visiting Mr.
and Mrs. Charles A. Emery several days, and Raphael S. Sherman, past member and second president of the local club.

The speaker was introduced by Jerome C. Burrows, program chairman. Forty-nine were present.

Such A Good Time!

The Verdict On the Thomaston Motor Corps' Halloween Dance

A Halloween dance was given by the Thomaston Motor Corps in Watts hall Friday night, with music by the Coast Guard Orchestra.
Among those present were Lieut.
Commander Isaac L. Hammond and family, and many other officers and men of the Coast Guard.

The grand march was led by Commander and Mrs. Hammond, to the strains of the Coast Guard March.
During the evening a competitive pie walk was enjoyed. Those winning the home-made pies were Miss Marie Clark of Thomaston, and Mrs. I. L. Hammond of Rockland.

As an added attraction, Miss Thirza McQuarrie, dressed in a colorful costume, told fortunes in one corner of the hall.

A beautiful centerpiece made and presented to the Motor Corps by Mrs. Ella Andrews, was to have been awarded, but due to the fact that the tickets were not all in, the drawing has been postponed until the night of the American Legion dance Armistice Eve.

The hall was beautifully decorated in keeping with the Halloween season. Refreshments of punch and sandwiches were served by the members of the Motor Corps.

Everyone present enjoyed the spirited and lively music played by the Coast Guard Orchestra, and its services in behalf of the Motor Corps were greatly appreciated. It has promised to play for the Legion dance. It was a successful affair both socially and financially.

Paintings by Carroll Thayer Berry, formerly of New York, now a resident of Wiscasset and at present employed as mechanical engineer at the Camden shipyards, and by his wife, whose professional name is Janet Laura Scott, are on exhibition at the public library all this week and through Monday.
The public is invited to visit the library. Mrs. Elsa West of South Thomaston is chairman of the American Art Week program for Knox County and has the assistance of Miss Laura Pomeroy and Edwin Witham. One of Mr. Berry's paintings is on display at Silsby's

Annual Meeting of District
Past Matrons' and Patrons' Association—Griffin Is Re-elected

Milton M. Griffin, re-elected president of District Association

Milton M. Griffin of Rockland was re-elected president of the Past Matrons and Patrons Association of the 11th O.E.S. District at the annual meeting in this city Thursday night with Golden Rod Chapter O.E.S. as hosts. Miss Doris Sylvester of Rockport was re-elected treasurer. Mrs. Margaret Stone of Thomaston was elected vice president and Mrs. Belle Frost of Rockland, secretary.

The meeting, attended by about 100 members and guests, was opened with prayer by the chaplain, Ralph U. Clark, after which the pledge of allegiance to the flag was given and "America" sung.

Greetings were extended by Miss Katherine A. Veazie, worthy matron of the hostess chapter. Following the business session, a memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Clara S. Watts, assisted by Mrs. Gertrude Boody and Mrs.
Maude E. Blodgett, for members who have died during the past year. The meeting closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne, with Mrs. Alta Dimick at the piano.

A program was presented by members of Golden Rod chapter entitled: "His Dream Sweethearts." Raymond L. Watts was the dreamer, with Miss Katherine A. Veazie, Mrs. Elzada Barstow, Mrs. Golden
H. Munro, Mrs. Elizabeth R. Seavey,
Mrs. Pauline H. Hutchinson, Miss
Virginia F. Chatto, Miss Emma C.
Harding, Mrs. Barbara J. Russell and Mrs. Clara S. Watts as his sweethearts. This program was done in pantomime and song, the participants costumed in old fashioned clothes. A chorus composed of Mrs. Ruth Pendleton, Miss Helen
A. Rogers, Mrs. Eva M. Greene,
Miss Flora J. Savage, Mrs. Nettie
B. Frost, Mrs. Marjorie Cummings, Ralph U. Clark, Jesse E. Bradstreet and Robert E. Pendleton sang songs appropriate for the occasion with Mrs. Frost and Mrs.
Cummings doing the solo work.

Members were present from Golden Rod Chapter of Rockland; Seaside Chapter of Camden; Harbor Light Chapter of Rockport;
Grace Chapter of Thomaston; Beach Chapter of Lincolnville, and Ivy Chapter of Warren. A delicious chicken pie supper was served to 81 members and guests.

The decorations were in keeping with the Halloween season with orange cellophane and Autumn leaves as the centerpiece flanked by orange and black candles. Halloween napkins and orange nut cups with rustic sign post place cards bearing the inscription
"Welcome, Past Matrons and Patrons," were at each place. Mrs.
Doris Jordan was in charge of the supper and was assisted in the kitchen by Mrs. Vincle Clark, Mrs.
Lena Stevens, Mrs. Ivy Chatto,
Mrs. Blanche Fales, Mrs. Eva
Greene and Mrs. Grace Veazie.
Mrs. Marjorie Cummings was head waitress assisted by Miss Katherine Veazie, Mrs. Barbara J. Russell,
Miss Flora J. Savage, Mrs. Golden
H. Munro, Mrs. Muriel Drinkwater,
Mrs. Elizabeth R. Seavey, Mrs.
Elzada N. Barstow and Miss Helen
A. Rogers.

Good-Bye To "Postal"

Frank C. Pratt, Final Manager For Telegraph Company, Relinquishes
the Key

The Postal Telegraph Company, which was established in Rockland in the latter part of the 19th century, officially ended its service in Rockland Oct. 26, and Frank C.
Pratt, manager, now 63 years of age, has been retired.

Mr. Pratt, following schooling, was employed as clerk by Mayo & Roseclothers, five years, when he decided he wanted to learn the telegraph business and entered the employ of the company Oct. 12, 1903.
The office was located at 10 Lime-rock street, and Mr. Pratt served the communication company at that location for 20 years. The office was then moved to 391 Main street, where it remained until four years ago, when the service was continued from Mr. Pratt's residence at 22 Grace street.

The first home of the Postal Telegraph Company in this city, as above indicated, was at 10 Lime-rock street, and the first manager was the late Eugene A. Rhodes. Mr. Rhodes was followed by Miss Delas Hoar, and it was under her management that Mr. Pratt learned telegraphy.
He proved an apt student, and had the reputation of being one of the best Morse operators in the State.

When he later became the company's manager he carried to that responsible position not only a thorough knowledge of telegraphy, but an executive ability and a pleasing personal address which made him very popular with the patrons.
Ernest Rogers, who served as messenger boy under Manager Pratt also learned telegraphy there and later managed the Western Union office for a while.

The Postal, under Manager Pratt, is especially well remembered by sport fans, who used to get the World Series games there in the pre-radio days, and who have been very grateful to Frank ever since.
Charles A. (Bert) Pease, is another graduate of Manager Pratt's school and later became one of the Belfast No Match For Rockland In Saturday's Football Game

The Rockland Tigers, after dropping a close game to Gardiner
High last week, made up for it Saturday by belting Belfast from one end of the field to the other.

The first quarter was the only one of the game that Belfast seemed to hold our boys back. Rockland made one touchdown in this period, when F. E. Allen on a reverse, completely foiled the Belfast team altogether, and went around right end to score.
The try for the extra point failed.

The second quarter opened with Rockland deep in Crosby territory.
P. S. Allen, after two tries, tore around right end for Rockland's second tally. Extra point failed.

The boys were really marching now. The second tally came when Rockland lost the ball on downs on Belfast's five-yard line. Wooster broke through the line to block the kick with Stevens recovering. That touchdown came just before the half ended.

A spirit of life took place in the third quarter as it was the only period in which Rockland did not score. McRae went over the goal, taking four men with him, only to be called back for off-side.

The fourth quarter opened with a bang when McRae dove through the Belfast line, this time for a score.
He also made the extra point. The high light of the game was when "Perly" Axtell, a guard, who was hurt in the Gardiner game, went in and caught a pass for another Rockland tally. The boys took the ball over on downs and started to march again. P. S. Allen making Rockland's last tally. A. Storer made the extra point.

The Belfast team had good spirit and was fighting all the way but it ended up to be of no avail.

Both teams played good ball with Gross and Merrill 1 standing out for Belfast; while the whole Rockland team starred. The summary:

Freight Car Coming

To Make Tin Can Collections
In Knox and Lincoln Counties

In furtherance of the plan to hold tin can collections throughout the State before the close of the year, the Maine Salvage Committee announced today that arrangements have been completed whereby communities in Knox, Lincoln and Sagadahoc Counties will have the opportunity to send their used tin cans off to war.

A freight car will be placed at Rockland Dec. 7 and will stop over at Wiscasset Dec. 9. Salvage chairmen in other communities in these counties will arrange to make collections and truck their accumulations of prepared cans to the nearest of the above shipping points where they will be loaded loosely into the car.

The committee urged that all housewives prepare and save tin cans now for the collection, and emphasize that unless cans were properly prepared they would be rejected by the detinning plants.

Proper preparation, the committee explained, consisted in thoroughly washing can, removing paper label, severing both ends of can, either entirely or sufficiently to fold inside body of can and flattening under foot.

The tin can represents about 1 percent tin and 99 percent steel, both metals critically needed in the war program, the committee said.

Born Of A Famine

Was the Poem "Three Grains Of Corn," Here Published By Request

A notice in The Black Cat column, on an expressed desire by Elmer Allen of Tenant's Harbor is bound to produce results. Elmer's request for the poem "Three Grains of Corn" met with prompt response by Miss Rose McNamara and E. H. Philbrick of Rockland. Amelia B. Edwards and Mrs. Margaret Elwell of Spruce Head. For the benefit of those who have never read it, the poem is here re-published:

THREE GRAINS OF CORN

Give me three grains of corn, mother—
Only three grains of corn;
It will keep the little life I have Till the coming of the morn.
I am dying of hunger and cold, mother—
Dying of hunger and cold;
And half the agony of such a death
My lips have never told.
It has gnawed like a wolf at my heart, mother—
A wolf that is fierce for blood;
All the livelong day, and the night beside,
Gnawing for lack of food.
I dreamed of bread in my sleep, mother—
And the sight was heaven to see;
I awoke with an eager, famishing lip,
But you had no bread for me.
How could I look to you, mother—
How could I look to you
For bread to give to your starving boy,
When you are starving too?
For I read the famine in your cheek
And in your eyes so wild,
And I felt it in your bony hand,
As you laid it on your child.
The Queen has lands and gold, mother—
The Queen has lands and gold,
While you are forced to your empty bread,
A skeleton baby to hold.
A babe that is dying of want, mother—
As I am dying now.
With a ghastly look in its sunken eye
And famine upon its brow.
What has poor Ireland done, mother—
What has poor Ireland done,
That the world looks on and sees us starve,
Perishing one by one?
Do the men of England care not, mother—
The great men and the high—
For the suffering sons of Erin's Isle,
Whether they live or die?
There is many a brave heart here, mother—
Dying of want and cold,
While only across the channel, mother—
Are many that roll in gold.
There are rich and proud men there, mother—
With wondrous wealth to view,
And the bread that they fling to their dogs tonight
Would give life to me and you.
Come nearer to my side, mother,
Come nearer to my side,
And hold me fondly, as you held
My father when he died;
Quick, for I cannot see you, mother,
My breath is almost gone,
Mother! dear mother! ere I die
Give me three grains of corn.
—Miss Edwards.

"The above poem conveys but a faint idea of the privations of the peasantry of Ireland in 1846," says Miss McNamara, who has been familiar with the poem since she was a child.

"If the boy's mother found three grains of corn in the corner of his jacket she gave them to him," writes Mr. Philbrick. "Thus the poem."

Yes, it is twenty-five years since the end of World War I, and we commemorate that Armistice in the middle of another, more critical, world wide conflict. A whole new generation has grown up since 1918—to find themselves living through what formerly they knew only through the pages of history books. Nevertheless, that generation and the rest of us have been living all these years as free individuals, while across the seas have grown up terroristic dictatorships. We have learned to value true democracy more highly than ever before, and those who have threatened it causing this bitter battle, will never again dare risk the overpowering reproach we are visiting upon them.

This war is demanding more of us than the last war; it is the business of every democracy-loving citizen of the United States! Our goals are more clearly defined, and our staunch belief in the rightness of our cause is daily more intensified. We are determined that no matter how much it takes we and our Allies are going to be the victors! For that reason we are devoting our energies to the fullest capacity in working and serving on our home and production fronts. That task, and our purchases of War Bonds and Stamps are our across-the-earth handclasp with our courageous boys who are sacrificing so much more—fighting and dying on faraway battle fields.

We are set on making the Armistice to come more glorious, more secure that the Armistice of 1918. It must be the inauguration of a new and better, truly lasting peace. That is our pledge this November 11th to our democratic way of life, and to all our heroes who have fought in years past and are fighting now to preserve it.

BUY: War Bonds and Stamps—as many and as often as you can. Our dollars give our boys the tanks, guns, ships and planes to see them through to Victory. Our money will be returned with interest after Victory. Our boys cannot wait. Their LIVES must be protected NOW; that all our war dead shall not have died in vain!

Mrs. Cain's Appeal

Rockport Woman Wants Memorial On the Hotel Lot

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—
An appeal from Mrs. Cain for a granite Soldiers Monument or Marker, to be placed on the old Hotel lot in Rockport was given a few weeks ago in this paper. A few have responded, but I am very anxious to have it made and ready to set as soon as possible but until the money is raised it cannot be ordered. I am asking the people to help get the amount necessary for it and feel with your help it can be done. Large or small contributions will be gratefully received.

As I am 83 years old I am not able to go out and collect so I am asking all who will to send or give it to me.
This is the inscription to be placed:
"Erected in memory of Rockport
Soldiers, Sailors, Marines, Flying Corps and all loyal workers, of all wars."

In 1929 I started to raise money for a Soldiers Monument, then the Bank holiday came, when the bank opened not much was left, so I am giving you the list who gave at that time:

This And That

By K. S. F.

It is well to be sure one is not burning valuable letters when they throw them to fires: Maine takes note that in a current publication of autographs of famous people, Longfellow's letters bring goodly sums. One, written while at Bowdoin College in 1832, is priced at $45; another, from Brunswick, the same year, $15; others written after the death of Mary Longfellow, from $17.50 to $22.50; some about his "Courtship of Miles Standish," well up in price, as also letters written during his years at Harvard in the seventies.

Street lighting originated in Paris in 1700 when police ordered every householder to keep a lamp burning in a street window from dark to dawn.

A fine music school is the Juilliard School of Music in New York, and starting this Fall they are to have Benny Goodman, teacher of clarinet, there, where he will impart his skill to students in lectures as well as private teaching.

Sweden is using a meat substitute consisting of dry yeast made from cellulose. It contains more than twice as much albumen as meat but is not as tasty.

Fighting men in training camps in the United States are now eating about four times as much fresh fish as average citizens?

Gerald Stevens of Southwest Harbor writes home: "It was a year, Oct. 1, that I have been overseas. I first went to New Zealand, and it was the most beautiful place I ever saw. Strictly English. Cars driven on the left side of road, everyone drinking tea, and not much night life. I really had a time. About everyone I'd meet would ask me to come to his home for tea and also would say 'I have a nice young daughter who will entertain you.' And they sure did have! They were very nice looking girls. They try to dress like our American girls, but can't quite make it. They sure do think American boys are 'it' and treated us like kings."

What is called poetry by some is a long shot from the real thing. One could with honesty of heart scarcely call it verse. Try to understand this as poetry: "A world of made is not a world of born—pity poor flesh and trees, poor stars and stones." Again—

"They've tried to grasp with Too much social fact Too large a situation." Good prose if well carried out but not musical poetry.

He: "I can't see what keeps girls from freezing." She: "You are not supposed to."

Some have a conscience that isn't really strong enough to keep them from temptation but just strong enough to keep them from enjoying it.

Today thoughts are voiced thus: Faith, Hope and Priority, but the greatest of these is Priority.

If you have soiled and tarnished gilt frames, you can clean them in an easy and inexpensive way. Just brush them with the lightly beaten white of egg, to which a big pinch of baking soda has been added. Cover the whole frame with the mixture and let stand a few minutes, then wash it off with cold water and rub dry with a woolen cloth.

There was a time when butter-milk was lauded as a great health uplift. I sometimes wonder if country people who enjoy it so much, do not find it a panacea for overeating.

At The High School

By The Pupils

An unusually interesting program was given at Senior assembly last Tuesday morning by the Senior Librarians when they undertook the task of explaining to the school the uses and contents of High School Library. Miss Ruth Emery led the devotions and the flag salute. She then introduced Richard Stevens who spoke briefly on the necessity of buying war bonds and stamps. Miss Emery next introduced Philip Wentworth of Camden High School, who sang a group of songs, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Helen Wentworth, at the piano. The audience was most appreciative of his fine voice and generous encore, as their prolonged applause showed. Mr. Wentworth's selections were: "Where'er I Walk" by Handel; "Vision" by Schubert; "Hills of Home" by Fox. For an encore he sang "The Lying-Awake song" from the light opera "Iolanthe," by Gilbert and Sullivan.

Mrs. Pitts introduced the 12 librarians, saying that they had at first planned to call the program a "panel discussion" but as that necessitated a seating arrangement they didn't care for, they changed to a "symposium." One senior discovered that a symposium is not only a free discussion but implies a "drinking party," so that wouldn't apply. They then planned a "round table." As the table they used was long and rectangular, instead of round, they decided to be original and just hold an "open discussion" conducting it with the method of questions and answers.

Miss Marie Berry then took charge of the discussion and with much poise and many witticisms carried through a program that never once lost the interest of her listeners. Responses were made in the following order: Christine Newhall, president of the club, explained in a forceful manner, the laws and uses of the library. Mary Chadburn described the reference section with its encyclopedias and dictionaries. Margaret Economy reviewed the standard fiction bringing back old friends, David Copperfield and Dora; and Maggie and Tom, while Louise Veazie described modern fiction with such books as "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo" and other war stories. The magazine section was capably handled by Gloria Witham, amusingly reviewing Look and Fortune, while Georgia Stevens told the news from Newsweek and Time. Melaine McCaslin described the weekly changes on the bulletin board; also the Book Guild where students may subscribe each month to a late book for thirty-five cents. College catalogs were taken up by Loan Look, and the poetry section was quoted from freely by Pauline Havener, who gave examples of poems for each season of the year. She concluded that the boys were particularly fond of this section as she found these original lines in the handwriting of a well known senior:

"There is meter of verse And meter of tone, But the best of all meters Is to meet 'er alone."

Joyce Mitchell spoke of biographies, both old and new, and Lois Nichols, taking the travel department, conducted her hearers from Rabaul and New Britain to Fujiyama and back again. Miss Berry closed the discussion with timely remarks on the library as a whole and the work that can be accomplished there.

The Outing Club, with Miss Kuslansky as faculty advisor, held a social in the gymnasium Tuesday night. This entertainment was given: Piano solo, "Starlite Waltz," Eunice Riley; tap dance, Virginia McCaslin and Maxine Skinner; vocal solo, "I Heard You Cried Last Night," Lorraine Iott; an acrobatic dance by Mary Welman; chorus, "Paper Doll," Maxine Skinner, Lorraine Iott and Virginia McCaslin; chorus, "Put Your Arms Around Me," Dorothy Benner, Doris Riley and Eunice Riley. Shirley Lunt announced the program.

Lt. Commander J. Milton Robertson of the Naval Base was speaker at a special assembly last Wednesday, in commemoration of Navy Day, for both Senior and Junior High. The speaker's fine talk covered the history of the navy, and paid tribute to many men who have brought the navy to its high standing today. Lt. Commander Robertson was introduced by Principal Blaisdell. Byron Keene was in charge of devotions.

One would never expect to see Hitler in heaven, yet in the Thursday morning assembly of the Junior High School, the angel Gabriel, and all the hosts of heaven were in a quandary to know how to get rid of this satirical maniac who somehow read the wrong sign posts and got into heaven by mistake. This hilarious and timely one-act play "For Heaven's Sake," was coached by Mrs. Jilson and had as its characters, Peter Sulides as Hitler, with Erik Lundin, Robert Chatto, Richard Senter, Virginia Manning, Natalie Nash, Stanley Walsh, Norman Hammond, Donald Marsh, Carlyle Brown, Elmer Sprague, Ralph Stone, Charles Foote and Kenneth Bradley as a supporting cast.

Methebesec Club

Members Heard Carl Moran's Timely Talk On Our Foreign Policies

E. Carl Moran was guest speaker at meeting of the Methenesec Club Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harold P. Blodgett, Talbot avenue. His subject was "Our Foreign Policies."

"A review of European history shows that alliances between countries have been proven not to be the pathway to peace," the speaker said. "The United States now faces the same issues as those raised after World War I, and some of the post-war resolutions now being advocated are like a hoop-skirt." Mr. Moran declared, "They cover a great deal but touch nothing." Referring to lend-lease the speaker suggested that it was time the United States stopped the International W.P.A.

Mr. Moran said that "the difficult but important decisions as to what course we will follow is squarely up to the American people." The speaker was enthusiastically received.

The next meeting of the club will be in the Congregational vestry Nov. 12 at 2:30 p. m., with Mrs. Roy A. Welker as hostess.

Benedict J. Dowling, Sr., and Dorothy Blenhen Lawrence were married Oct. 28, at high noon. The couple were unattended. Only close relatives were present at the ceremony which was performed at the home of Rev. James P. Savage.

The bride wore a green suit with brown accessories, and a corsage of bronze chrysanthemums. Mr. and Mrs. Dowling will be at home at 50 Holmes street after Nov. 15.

WASHINGTON—AND YOU

By Margaret Chase Smith

Washington, Oct. 27—Many letters come to me about Federal insurance. Some want the Social Security Act expanded to cover health hospital and medical insurance while some say that they are afraid of this extension of Federal activity. Bankers and insurance companies write that they are afraid of this competition between the Government and private enterprise.

I have asked the Ways and Means Committee to hold hearings on the pension bills which would include Social Security changes. If and when they do this Federal insurance will be discussed in open hearings. Meantime I have received letters from Maine physicians opposing the Murray-Wagner bill which provides for "Federal Medical Hospitalization and Related Benefits." I have written the Maine Medical Association for an opinion on the measure.

Constituents say that the Maine Hospital Association is unanimously opposed to the bill, as well as many prominent citizens who are hospital trustees, that the bill tends to centralize more and more power in the Federal government, adds tremendously to the tax-load, and makes the entire health of the people a plaything of politics. One physician says that he served as a delegate at the American Hospital Association meeting in Buffalo and found great opposition there to the bill. He explains that many hospitals are making every effort to extend medical care and hospitalization to low-income groups that are not now able to afford it. He thinks this should be done through iron-governmental groups or through individual States. I am studying the medical and hospital situation also attitudes toward government-aid while on the West Coast with my Naval Affairs Subcommittee. We are holding hearings in the congested areas of Seattle, Portland and Los Angeles which gives me an excellent chance to talk with representative citizens.

The War Production Board tells me that there is a shortage of lime. This came as a replay to a question from a constituent who said she could not buy yard lime for her chickens, although her neighbors had large quantities, given to them by the government, stored.

I have not had an explanation yet as to the large quantities claimed to have been obtained from the government and I am making a separate inquiry about that. But WPB says that practically all materials are now required in one form or another for war production, and lime is one of these.

Soft drink bottlers of my District have written to say they do not feel that they should be put under an excise tax in the expected 1943 revenue bill, that they have a hard time continuing anyway, with rulings by WPB, OPA, ODT and WMC with rationing of sugar, crowns, gasoline, tires, and the difficulty of getting repairs for machinery, besides heavier corporation income taxation and all the "hidden" excise and other taxes they have to pay. They feel that the proposed tax would be discriminatory.

As the Selective Service is combining available manpower for induction trying to stave off the draft of fathers as long as possible, complaints come in that men are being taken who are needed to keep the essential civilian structure going.

One constituent says that roofing, siding and insulating mechanics are being gradually drafted or are going into war plants. He explains that this is reaching a point where health and comfort of the general public would be seriously menaced if there should be another "Act of God" disaster like the New England hurricane of 1938. He says that there is such a shortage of mechanics that even necessary repairs cannot be made in any reasonable time now, and suggests an amendment to the Selective Service Act that will define a man in an essential industry as indispensable unless there is another man capable, ready and willing to replace him.

The Propeller Club of Portland has written me to support H.R. 2314. This bill would give credit to men now in the Coast Guard who have served time in the Lighthouse Service. The Coast Guard is now under the Navy, and as a member of the Naval Affairs Committee, I am especially interested in the situation. When the Lighthouse Service was reorganized into the Coast Guard in 1939, many officers were inducted into this branch of the service, but while such civilians from other services get credit, the former Lighthouse men do not.

OUR PEACE

[For The Courier-Gazette]
With men we may have trouble
And with them be at war,
The wicked and unduly,
Whose crimes we must abhor.

With God through Christ our Savior
In life that never will cease
In spite of earthly warfare
We know we can have peace.

SPLENDOR

[For The Courier-Gazette]
I'll scan the Autumn sky at night,
The burnished sun has wrought red flame,
And stand on some gaunt, lonely height,
The king of all the mountain range.
A distant river turned to gold,
The deep green valleys roll away,
No Persian monarch ever ruled
The wondrous lands that I survey.

GOLDEN PARADISE

[For The Courier-Gazette]
Across a shining countryside where Summer used to dwell
The hills turn golden in the sun as if by magic spell
The whole wide land by strange disguise
Had turned a golden paradise.
And red and gold leaves whirl through space
To find the winding silver streams and float away like fairy boats Down through a wonderland of dreams.
But when the wild loon's clarion call Salutes the gleam of Autumn sky,
We find the hills by strange disguise
Have changed to golden paradise.

Vanished Men

by GEORGE MARSH

Six men traveled the Chibougamau Trail in the wilds of northern Canada. Six men died. Garry Finlay's brother, Bob, was one of the six. Foul play was suspected. And so Garry, square-jawed and steely-eyed, came up from the South. Aided by Flame, a giant airedale, Big Red Malone and Blaise, a half breed guide, he solved the mystery of the Chibougamau Trail. And somebody paid!

Knox, Hancock and Washington Counties Are Beating Portland

Recent statistics of the Sea and Shore Fisheries Department on the landings of ground fish on the coast indicate that significant changes are taking place in the locale of the Maine fisheries. In the past three years the eastern county fish ports in Knox, Hancock and Washington counties have grown in importance until they passed Portland, the major fish port of the State, by approximately 6,000,000 pounds in 1942.

As a basis for the indicated change the reports show that more than 16,500,000 pounds of fish were landed in Cumberland county in 1942 as against 5,700,000 pounds in Knox, Hancock and Washington counties for the same year. In 1941 the Portland, or Cumberland county landings dropped to 10,200,000 pounds and the three eastern counties jumped to 7,300,000 pounds. In 1942 a drastic change was noted with the Cumberland county landings set at 6,200,000, while the total for Knox, Hancock and Washington counties moved up to 11,600,000 pounds for the January to December period.

The same trend is indicated in the 1943 January to June report of ground fish landings with the three eastern counties reporting 5,200,000 pounds compared with 3,200,000 pounds for Cumberland county.

The types of fish listed in the landing totals by statistician Arthur McKown included six types of fish—hake, cod, pollock, haddock, cusk and wolffish, listed in order of importance. The production of rosefish is not included in the statistical report. In the eastern counties landings at Rockland, Vinalhaven, Stonington and Southwest Harbor accounted for the bulk of the increased production.

Commissioner Greenleaf stated that war conditions affecting the fisheries were in a major way responsible for the indicated shift in the ground fisheries. Port entry restrictions at Portland were responsible for many of the fishing boats moving to ports where they would have greater freedom of movement. Increased facilities for the handling and storage of fish at Rockland and Southwest Harbor also influenced the trend, Greenleaf stated.

After a survey of the eastern fisheries, Leslie Scattergood of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service found that increased price to the producer had not been worked for years. Before the war low prices and a difficult transportation situation kept fishermen off the grounds, but recent regulations of price and transportation costs have made it possible for the downeast fishermen to operate at a profit, Scattergood said.
